Protection For the Farmer.

It is one of the pet cries of the Democratic State press that the Kansas farmer will best subserve his interests by advocating free trade; that he, especially, is injured by a protective tariff; that he of all persons has least need of the policy advocated by Republicanism, the protection of Ameriprices on his purchases while his products are sold at such prices as would not be affected by free trade, and hence he should advocate the opening of our markets to the paupers of Europe, for he could sell as now and buy more

The duty upon wheat is twenty cents a bushel and the truth is that this tariff is a protection to every wheat grower living in the Mississippi valley. Hon. Thomas W. Dudley, formerly United States consul at Liverpool, said in an address at Chicago, November 11, 1887: "India wheat can be laid down in London at 70 cents a bushel, and in New York at 75 cents, without duty. With the duty added it can be put down in New York at 95 cents per bushel, and with the increased railway facilities which are now being introduced in India before five years the India farmer will be able to place his wheat in the New York market at a very much lower rate, probably as low as 60 cents per bushel without the duty, and, unless the present duty on wheat of 20 cents per bushel is increased. India wheat will be here in our markets competing with our farmers. This is no fancy sketch, but a sober truth which I fear our farmers will have to meet face to face too soon. The lands in India are as rich and fertile as our own. How is it possible for which you or any of you may have in said real our farmers to compete with the Indian farmer in raising wheat, when the latter can hire all the labor he requires at from 6 to 8 cents per day without board, No. 2. Four years ago the people the laborer feeding himself out of these coin, would refuse to call in bonds make up for this difference in the price circulation money unnecessarily locked | men for a day on the interest alone of up; now we know that to protract the the money you pay for your reaper

The increasing competition of India bond calls until forced by Congressional wheat makes the outlook important to year was 27,038,954 acres, which yielded 254,582,000 bushels, to 26,735,000 acres in 1886-7 and 233,125,000 bushels, showing an increase in both acreage and yield. The Indian yield has gone as high as 300,000,000 bushels in one year, and the exports aggregated 41,558,000 bushels in one season. During the last crop year, however, there were only 25,920,000 bushels exported. The shipments from April to July 8 this year reached 15,996,000 bushels. In the face of this will anyone be rash enough to say that the farmer reaps no enough to say that the farmer reaps no late of the same to be levied upon, lots 1, 2, 3, and 4; the north 23½ acres of lot 5 and the east half of the northwest quarter, all in section 30, township 13, range 2, benefits from protection?

We did say and now repeat that the sympathizers with Prof. Canfield's free-trade views are the "brains" that get their inspiration from English and Southern advisors.
